The Point Wins 3 Telly Awards

BALTIMORE (May 20, 2005) - Sinclair Broadcast Group, Inc. (Nasdaq: SBGI) announced that "The Point," a daily commentary by Mark Hyman and aired on Sinclair's news stations, has been awarded three Telly Awards for excellence. All three awards were for commentaries that were part of the 2004 series, "The Point Goes To Iraq."

Receiving the Silver Telly, the highest award given, were the following two "The Point Goes To Iraq" commentaries:

"Absence of Malice" in which an Iraqi couple who lost three sons in two Iraqi wars, including one son killed by U.S. Marines, believed that Iraq was a better country after Iraq's U.S. led liberation; and "Kurdish Diplomacy" whereby the leader of the largest Kurdish political party in Iraq talked about the Kurds desire for an independent state but instead pushed for only limited autonomy out of deference to U.S. wishes.

Selected as a finalist for the Bronze Telly award was "Karrada Free Market Choices" whereby viewers were introduced to the brisk sales and plentiful consumer goods in the major shopping district of Baghdad that immediately began following the fall of Saddam Hussein.

Sharing in the awards were Dina Nesheiwat, Sinclair Producer, for her production support work and Larry Keller, Photojournalist with Sinclair's WB affiliate, KVWB-TV in Las Vegas, who was photographer/editor while in Iraq.
