FORMER BALTIMORE POLICE COMMISSIONER TO APPEAR ON WEEKLY FOX45 MORNING NEWS SEGMENT

“FOX Undercover with Ed Norris” Premieres on FOX45 Morning News

BALTIMORE (November 17, 2005) – WBFF’s FOX45 News is pleased to announce a unique partnership with former Baltimore Police Commissioner, Ed Norris. A strategic union between the award-winning news organization and the unmatched insight of Mr. Norris was forged this week in an effort to bring the viewers of FOX45 an insider’s perspective on local issues such as crime, politics and other community issues.

“Ed Norris will be offering expert analysis as it pertains to issues affecting the residents of Baltimore and other information at the state level,” said Scott Livingston, FOX45 News Director. “We feel that his experience in law enforcement and insight in the inner workings of government will provide for stimulating discussion and new perspectives.”

Each Thursday between 6:30am and 7:00am, a special interview segment titled, “FOX Undercover with Ed Norris,” will air during FOX45 Morning News. “FOX45 is delighted to be the exclusive TV station with Mr. Norris as a community analyst,” said FOX45 General Manager, William Fanshawe.

From May 2000 to December 2002, Mr. Norris served as Baltimore Police Commissioner. In January 2003, Mr. Norris was appointed Superintendent of the Maryland State Police.

WBFF is owned and operated by Sinclair Broadcast Group, Inc.
